Medical Disclaimer. Guidelines are not a substitute for the experience and judgment of a physician and are developed to enhance the physician's ability to practice evidence-based medicine. The material in these guidelines are furnished for general informational purposes and does not constitute the practice of medicine, nor should it be relied upon for dealing with a specific medical or health condition. Patients should consult a qualified care professional for advice about a specific condition. The ACCP disclaims any liability to any party for the accuracy, completeness or availability of the Guidelines or for any damages arising out of the use or non-use of the material and any information contained therein.

General Disclaimer. The materials and services provided in these guidelines are provided on an "as is" basis and the ACCP expressly disclaims any and all warranties express or implied, including without limitation warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, or non-infringement intellectual property. The ACCP further does not warrant the accuracy and completeness of the materials in these Guidelines. The materials and procedures in these Guidelines are current as of November 1st 2002. From time to time, in its sole discretion, the American College of Chest Physicians may update the information in these Guidelines without notice.

Limit of Liability. In no event will the ACCP or third parties mentioned in these guidelines be liable for any damages whatsoever (including, without limitation, direct, indirect, incidental, punitive or consequential damages) arising out of the use, inability to use, or the results of use of these guidelines, any references used in these guidelines, or the materials or information or procedures contained in these guidelines whether based on warranty, contract, tort or any other legal theory and whether or not advised of the possibility of such damages. If your use of the materials or information from these guidelines results in the need for servicing, repair or correction of equipment or data, you assume all costs thereof. Applicable law may not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental or consequential damages, so the above limitation or exclusion may not apply to you.

The ACCP reserves the right to modify this Disclaimer in its sole discretion. Use of the Guidelines following the posting of any such modifications shall be subject to such modified Disclaimer.
