Those with severe OSA were at a higher risk for hospitalization with pneumonia (87%), respiratory infection (47%), and any infection (48%). Screening for OSA and treating severe OSA may lower the risk of hospitalization due to pneumonia and other infectious diseases.